Draft Response to Bradley Angel's inquiry:

Thank you for your inquiry. Treasure Island has a Superfund Site ID because it went through the Site Assessment process. While the Site scored high enough for NPL listing, cleanup was already being conducted by the Navy and the State was providing the regulatory oversight, so the determination was made that the site qualified for "Other Cleanup Activity" Status. That means that the cleanup will be done by another party, and EPA currently does not have a role. The cleanup is making good progress under the State's oversight, and NPL listing is not being pursued.

All Site Assessment documents have been released to the public pursuant to a Freedom of Information Act inquiry, which can be accessed at the following website: <https://foiaonline.regulations.gov/foia/action/public/view/request?objectId=090004d28037bf2e>

Hello EPA,

Can you explain in writing why Treasure Island, which has a Superfund ID number, is not on the NPL Superfund list?

When a few of us met with you recently, you explained why this site was not on NPL - which we disagree with.

As you know we and many others believe it should be on the NPL.

A number of residents and advocates are asking me about this, and we would all appreciate you putting in writing how TI got a Superfund number but why it apparently never made it onto the NPL list.

So could you put this in writing for us and others? Thanks

Bradley Angel
